Battle of the Books

2011-2012

The Battle of the Books is a reading competition for students in grades 5-8. To participate, a student needs to read at least two of the battle books by the end of January. The more of the books, the students read, the better off their team will be when it comes to competition. At the end of January, students will form their battle teams (each team consists of 4 to 5 students). The battle of the books competition will take place in the spring.
